CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

Plaintiff, Scott Beall, hereby brings this action on behalf of himself and all other similarly situated persons and entities who indirectly purchased Thin-Film Transistor Liquid Crystal Displays (“LCD”) and products containing LCD during a period beginning no later than January 1, 2002, and continuing until the present. Plaintiff seeks federal injunctive relief under Section 16 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. § 26 for violations of Section 1 of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1 and damages and other relief from the LCD manufacturers listed above (“Defendants”) for violations of Tennessee’s Trade Practices Act, Tenn. Code Ann. §§ 47-25-101, et seq. Plaintiff, upon personal knowledge as to his own acts and status, and upon information and belief as to all other matters, alleges the following:

INTRODUCTION

1. This case arises out of a long-running conspiracy extending from January 1, 2002 and continuing until the present (the “Class Period”), among Defendants and their co-conspirators, with the purpose and effect of fixing prices, allocating market share, and committing other unlawful practices designed to inflate the prices of LCD and products containing LCD sold indirectly to Plaintiff and other purchasers throughout the United States, including in Tennessee. Plaintiff brings this Class Action pursuant to Tennessee’s Trade Practices Act, Tenn. Code Ann. §§ 47-25-101, et seq.

2. Defendants and their co-conspirators have formed an international cartel to illegally restrict competition in the LCD market, targeting and severely burdening consumers in Tennessee. During the Class Period, the conspiracy has affected billions of dollars of commerce for products commonly found in households and businesses throughout the United States, including Tennessee. Defendants' conspiracy has included communications and meetings in which Defendants agreed to eliminate competition and fix the prices and allocate markets for LCD.

3. The charged combination, and conspiracy consisted of a continuing agreement, understanding, and concert of action among Defendants and their co-conspirators, the substantial terms of which were to fix, stabilize, and maintain prices, allocate markets and customers, and to coordinate price increases of LCD in Tennessee.

4. The acts by Defendants in furtherance of the conspiracy have included the following wrongful conduct and horizontal agreements:

- (a) participating in meetings and conversations in which Defendants and their co-conspirators discussed and agreed to prices for LCD;
- (b) participating in meetings and conversations in which Defendants and their co-conspirators allocated markets and customers for LCD;
- (c) participating in meetings and conversations in which Defendants and their co-conspirators discussed and agreed to refrain from engaging in competitive bidding or to submit complementary and non-competitive bids for particular contracts to supply LCD and products containing LCD to various consumers;
- (d) exchanged sales and customer information for the purposes of monitoring and enforcing adherence to the agreements reached;
- (e) issuing price announcements, price quotations, and general price increases in accordance with the pricing and market allocation agreements reached; and

- (f) facilitating, effectuating, implementing, monitoring, and concealing the contract, combination, and conspiracy to raise the prices of LCD sold.

JURISDICTION & VENUE

5. Plaintiff brings this class action pursuant to Tennessee's Trade Practices Act, Tenn. Code Ann. §§ 47-25-101, et seq.

6. This Complaint is also filed under Section 16 Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. § 26 to enjoin Defendants, and their officers, agents, employees, or representatives from engaging in the unlawful contract, combination, and conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce of LCD.

7. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1332. The matter in controversy exceeds $5,000,000 exclusive of interest and costs when the claims of individual class members are aggregated, and is between citizens of different states. Venue is proper in the United States District Court for the Western District of Tennessee pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 15 and § 22 and 28 U.S.C. § 1391, as the Defendants reside, transact business or are found within this District, and/or a substantial part of the events giving rise to the Plaintiff's claims arose in this District.

8. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1331 by virtue of Plaintiff's injunctive relief claims brought under the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. § 26. Jurisdiction is also proper under 28 U.S.C. § 1367 as all other claims arise from the same case or controversy as the Clayton Act claim.

9. Personal jurisdiction comports with due process under the United States Constitution and Tennessee's long-arm statutes.

10. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, Defendants (directly or through agents who were at the time acting with actual and/or apparent authority and within the scope of such authority) have:

- (a) transacted business in Tennessee;
- (b) contracted to supply or obtain services or goods in Tennessee;
- (c) availed themselves intentionally of the benefits of doing business in Tennessee;
- (d) produced, promoted, sold, marketed, and/or distributed their products or services in Tennessee and, thereby, have purposefully profited from their access to Tennessee's markets;
- (e) caused tortious damage by act or omission in Tennessee;
- (f) caused tortious damage in Tennessee by acts or omissions committed outside such jurisdiction while (i) regularly doing or soliciting business in such jurisdiction, and/or (ii) engaging in other persistent courses of conduct within such jurisdiction, and/or (iii) deriving substantial revenue from goods used or consumed or services rendered in such jurisdiction;
- (g) committed acts and omissions which Defendants knew or should have known would cause damage (and, in fact, did cause damage) in Tennessee to Plaintiff and class members while (i) regularly doing or soliciting business in such jurisdiction, and/or (ii) engaging in other persistent courses of conduct within such jurisdiction, and/or (iii) deriving substantial revenue from goods used or consumed or services rendered in such jurisdiction;
- (h) engaged in a conspiracy with others doing business in Tennessee that caused tortious damage in such jurisdiction; and
- (i) otherwise had the requisite minimum contacts with Tennessee such that, under the circumstances, it is fair and reasonable to require Defendants to come to this Court to defend this action.

11. Plaintiff Scott Beall is a resident of Tennessee. In addition, a substantial part of the trade and commerce, as well as the arrangement, contract, agreement, trust, combination, conspiracy, unfair or deceptive practices, and/or uniform and common course of conduct giving rise to Plaintiff's claims, occurred within Tennessee, including, among other things, the indirect sale of LCD to Plaintiff and other members of the class at supra-competitive prices.

12. As a result of the manufacture, distribution, delivery and sale of LCD products to indirect purchasers within Tennessee, Defendants, directly or through their subsidiaries, affiliates or agents, obtained the benefits of the laws of Tennessee and the markets of Tennessee for their products.

ADDITIONAL DEFENDANTS

54. As additional information may come to light, Plaintiff reserves the right to add other Defendants as they become known to him.

CO-CONSPIRATORS

55. Various other individuals, partnerships, corporations, organizations, firms, and associations not yet made defendants in this Complaint (the “Co-Conspirators”) and presently unknown to Plaintiff, participated as co-conspirators in the violation alleged herein, and performed acts and made statements in furtherance of the conspiracy.

56. The true names and capacities, whether individual, corporate, associate, representative, or otherwise of Defendants named herein as DOES 1 through 100 are unknown to Plaintiff at this time, and are therefore sued by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege the true names and capacities of DOES 1 through 100 when they become known to Plaintiff. Each of DOES 1 through 100 is in some manner legally responsible for the violations of law alleged herein.

57. The acts charged in this Complaint as having been done by Defendants and the DOE Defendants were authorized, ordered, or done by their officers, agents, employees, or representatives, while actively engaged in the management of the Defendants' businesses or affairs.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

58. This action is brought by Plaintiff on behalf of himself, and pursuant to Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, as representative of a class ("the Class"). In particular, Plaintiff asserts that a class action is appropriate under Rule 23(b)(3).

59. The Class is defined as:

All persons and entities residing in Tennessee who indirectly purchased LCD or products containing LCD manufactured and sold by one or more of the Defendants during the Class Period. Excluded from the Class are: all federal, state, or local governmental entities; Defendants' subsidiaries and affiliates; all persons who purchased LCD directly from any Defendant or from any other manufacturer of LCD.

60. Although the exact size of the Class is unknown, the total number of Class members is in the thousands as most Tennessee consumers have purchased LCD and/or products containing LCD. Based upon the nature of the trade and commerce involved, joinder of all Class members would be impracticable.

61. Plaintiff's claims are typical of the claims of the Class, and Plaintiff will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Class. Plaintiff has no conflict with any other Class member and has retained competent counsel experienced in class action and antitrust litigation.

62. Common questions of law and fact exist, including:

- (a) whether Defendants conspired with each other and others to fix, raise, stabilize or maintain the prices of LCD;
- (b) whether Defendants' acts were unfair or deceptive;
- (c) whether the combination or conspiracy caused the prices of LCD and products containing LCD to be higher than they would have been in the absence of Defendants' conduct;
- (c) the operative time period for the conspiracy;
- (d) whether Defendants' conduct caused injury to the business or property of Plaintiff and the Class members, and if so, the appropriate measure of damages;
- (e) whether Defendants' conduct violated Tenn. Code Ann. §§ 47-25-101, et seq;
- (f) whether Defendants actively concealed the violation alleged herein; and
- (g) the appropriate nature of the class-wide equitable relief.

These and other questions of law and fact are common to the Class members and predominate over any questions affecting only individual Class members.

63. Class action treatment is a superior method for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy described herein. The class action vehicle provides an efficient method for enforcement of the rights of Plaintiff and the Class members, and such litigation can be fairly managed. Plaintiff knows of no unusual problems of management or notice.

64. It is desirable for the claims of the Plaintiff and Class members to be consolidated into a single proceeding to provide all claimants with a forum in which to seek redress for the violations of the laws of Tennessee.

65. The difficulties that may exist in the management of the class action are far outweighed by the benefits of the class action procedure.

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

66. LCD is a thin, flat display device consisting of pixels aligned in front of a reflector or source of light. An LCD generally consists of a mask of colored pixels and a layer of liquid crystal solution sandwiched between two panes of polarized glass. When an electric current is passed through the liquid crystals, the crystals react, creating electric fields. By manipulating the state of liquid crystals using electrical charges, the liquid crystals act like tiny shutters, opening or closing in response to the stimulus, thereby allowing light to pass through the colored pixels. As a result, the LCD is illuminated, thus creating an image.

67. LCD technology was introduced during the early 1970s; however, they were used commercially for laptop computer screens during the late 1980s. Today, LCD are used in a variety of electronic products including, but not limited to, flat-panel televisions and computer monitors, laptop computers, digital cameras, cell phones, microwaves, digital personal assistants and digital music players.

68. The LCD market is conducive to the kind of anticompetitive practices alleged in this Complaint. The market is oligopolistic, is characterized by high manufacturing costs, and has technological barriers to entry. The high barriers to entry are due to the capital-intensive nature of the display industry and the high volumes of production required to achieve economies of scale.

69. According to reports, the worldwide market for LCD panels was worth $53 billion in 2004. Other estimates suggest that the market is worth approximately $70 billion. Most LCD panels are manufactured in Taiwan and South Korea. For the first quarter of this year, Taiwan accounted for 52.2% of the LCD panel shipments, while South Korea had a 37.4% share. Last year, South Korea led with a 48.8% share against Taiwan's 41.8% share.

70. LG.Philips and Samsung have consistently been the industry's leading manufacturers. In 2005, LG.Philips captured a 21.4% market share of LCD panel production sized ten inches or larger, edging out Samsung, which had a 20.9% market share. Following closely behind were AU Optronics with 14.5%, Chi Mei Optoelectronics with 11.8%, and Chunghwa Picture Tubes with 7.3%. Thus far in 2006, however, Samsung appears to have overtaken LG.Philips as the largest manufacturer of LCD panels—a result of the joint venture operation with SONY to form S-LCD Corp. Trailing close behind is AU Optronics. With its acquisition of Quanta Display in 2006, the company's estimated market share rises to approximately 20.2%, according to industry experts.

71. Prior to the Class Period, LCD prices in the United States decreased significantly. New competitors entered the LCD market during this period. Moreover, the increased manufacturing capacity resulting from newly constructed advanced generation factories and efficiency in production equipment and processes contributed to these price declines. The LCD manufacturers' saw their profit margins squeezed from falling average selling prices. Prices had dropped so precipitously that producers were actually selling at production cost, without making any profit.

72. These efficiencies did, however, allow for the increased use of finished LCD in computer monitors and laptop notebooks, flat panel televisions and cell phones. Upon information and belief, the average selling price of LCD rose significantly from 2003 to 2004 largely because of collusion among the Defendants. During this period, Defendants agreed to reduce supply in order to artificially raise prices.

73. Defendants' collusion operated to stymie the decline in prices prior to 2003, such that they raised prices to supra-competitive levels. By 2003, prices climbed. For instance, the average price of LCD larger than 10 inches increased from $219 in the second quarter to $271 in the fourth quarter. At the end of 2003, the market was valued at $33 billion, a significant increase from $29 billion in 2002. This increasing average price of LCD continued to rise in 2004, hitting an all-time high. According to industry analysts, the market was valued at $36 billion in 2004. It was the collusive activity among the Defendants and their Co-Conspirators that kept the prices at supra-competitive levels and lead to the increase in value of the overall LCD market.

74. The LCD industry has undergone significant consolidation throughout the Class Period, leading to substantially fewer LCD manufacturers in the market. Examples of this consolidation include AU Optronics' acquisition of Quanta Display and the collaboration by industry leaders to create ventures such as S-LCD, Toshiba Matsushita Display Technology and Sanyo Epson Imaging Devices.

75. The market for LCD products is large and steadily increasing in size. For example, shipments of LCD displays is predicted to rise to 154.3 million units in the first half of 2007, which is a 6.3% increase from the 145.2 million units shipped during the latter half of 2006, and is a 23.7% increase from the first half of 2006.

76. The United States Department of Justice ("DOJ") recently launched an investigation into anticompetitive practices by LCD manufacturers. On or about December 8, 2006, the DOJ subpoenaed Defendants LG.Philips, Samsung, Sharp and Chi Mei Optoelectronics. A spokesperson for the DOJ confirmed that an investigation is underway in the LCD industry and that the DOJ is cooperating internationally with other antitrust authorities. Several Defendants such as LG.Philips, Sharp and Samsung have acknowledged publicly that the DOJ has subpoenaed them about the LCD investigation.

77. Authorities in the European Union, Japan, South Korea and Taiwan have launched similar probes in coordination with the DOJ investigation. On December 12, 2006, the European Commission confirmed that it had sent formal requests for information to a number of LCD producers. Japan's Fair Trade Commission also confirmed that it is investigating allegations of price-fixing against LG.Philips, Samsung, AU Optronics, Sharp, Seiko Epson, Toshiba Matsushita Display Technology, NEC, Hitachi, and IPS Alpha. LG.Philips publicly acknowledged on December 11, 2006, that it is being investigated in various countries: "[A]s part of an investigation of possible anticompetitive conduct in the LCD industry, officials from the Korean Fair Trade Commission visited the offices of LG.Philips LCD in Seoul, Korea." Defendants Samsung, Sharp and Chi Mei Optoelectronics have also confirmed that they are under investigation by competition regulators overseas.

78. Price fixing among manufacturers in the high-technology industry has also occurred in other product markets, as evidenced by the most recent conspiracy in the Dynamic Random Access Memory market and the alleged conspiracy in the Static Random Access Memory market. Not surprisingly, many of the Defendants in these other cases are also implicated in this new investigation of the LCD industry such as Defendants Samsung and Toshiba.

TRADE AND COMMERCE

79. The activities of Defendants and their Co-Conspirators, as described herein, were within the flow of, were intended to, and did have a substantial effect on the commerce of LCD throughout the United States, including Tennessee.

80. During the Class Period, Defendants manufactured, sold and shipped substantial quantities of LCD to manufacturing businesses and consumers throughout the United States, including Tennessee. Those businesses resold and/or incorporated the LCD into other products including, but not limited to, flat-panel televisions and computer monitors, laptop computers, digital cameras, cell phones, microwaves, digital personal assistants and digital music players and then sold those goods to businesses and consumers throughout the United States, including Tennessee.

81. The contract, combination, and conspiracy consists, upon information and belief, of a continuing agreement, understanding, and concert of action between and among Defendants and their Co-Conspirators, the substantial terms of which were and are to fix, stabilize, and maintain prices, allocate markets and customers, and to coordinate price increases for the sale of LCD throughout the United States, including Tennessee.

82. The acts in furtherance of the conspiracy by Defendants have included, on information and belief, the following wrongful conduct and horizontal agreements:

- (a) participating in meetings and conversations on a periodic basis during the Class Period, in which Defendants and their Co-Conspirators discussed and agreed to fix, raise, stabilize, and maintain the prices for LCD;
- (b) participating in meetings and conversations on a periodic basis during the Class Period, in which Defendants and their Co-Conspirators discussed and agreed to allocate markets and customers for LCD;
- (c) participating in meetings and conversations on a periodic basis during the Class Period, in which Defendants and their Co-Conspirators discussed and agreed to refrain from engaging in competitive bidding, or to submit complementary and non-competitive bids, for particular contracts to supply LCD and/or products containing LCD to various customers;

- (d) exchanging sales and customer information for the purposes of monitoring and enforcing adherence to the agreements reached;
- (e) issuing price announcements, price quotations, and general price increases in accordance with the pricing and market allocation agreements reached; and
- (f) facilitating, effectuating, implementing, monitoring and concealing the contract, combination, and conspiracy to raise the prices of LCD sold.

83. For the purposes of formulating and effectuating the aforesaid contract, combination, and conspiracy, Defendants and their Co-Conspirators did those things which they conspired to do.

IMPERMISSIBLE MARKET EFFECTS

84. The contract, combination, and conspiracy alleged herein had the following effects, among others:

- (a) prices paid by Plaintiff and the Class members for LCD and products containing LCD were fixed, raised, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high and noncompetitive levels;
- (b) indirect purchasers of LCD and products containing LCD were deprived of the benefits of free and open competition; and
- (c) competition between and among Defendants and their Co-Conspirators in the sale of LCD and/or products containing LCD was unreasonably restrained.

85. As a result, Plaintiff and the Class members have been injured in their businesses and property in that they have not only been deprived the benefits of fair and open competition on the merits but have paid more for LCD and/or products containing LCD than they otherwise would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful contract, combination, and conspiracy.

FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

86. Plaintiff hereby incorporates by reference each of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

87. Throughout the Class Period, Defendants and their Co-Conspirators engaged in a successful, illegal price-fixing conspiracy that was by its nature self-concealing and further effectively, affirmatively, and fraudulently Defendants' concealed their unlawful combination, conspiracy, and acts in furtherance thereof from Plaintiff and the Class members.

88. Although Plaintiff exercised due diligence throughout the Class Period, he could not have discovered Defendants' unlawful scheme and conspiracy at an earlier date because of Defendants' effective, affirmative, and fraudulent concealment of their activities. Defendants' wrongful conduct was carried out in part through means and methods that were designed and intended to avoid detection, and which in fact, successfully precluded detection.

89. Defendants' fraudulent concealment included public statements that falsely attributed wild price fluctuations of LCD to natural reasons such as seasonal ebb and flow and a highly competitive market. Defendants also instructed their United States entities to offer similar false reasons to explain price increases to customers in the United States, including Tennessee. In fact, those fluctuations were due to Defendants periodic withholding of the supply of LCD to create an artificial supply shortage, which in turn generated a level of artificial demand, driving up prices.

90. Plaintiff and the Class members had no reason to disbelieve Defendants' explanations of the pricing behavior of these products. Indeed, in some instances Defendants' explanations involved proprietary or otherwise non-public information within Defendants' exclusive control, leaving Plaintiff and the Class members without means to verify their accuracy. Plaintiff did not know nor could he have known that Defendants' prices for LCD were artificially inflated and maintained by virtue of Defendant's illegal price-fixing conspiracy and that Plaintiff and the other Class members were paying higher prices for LCD and/or products containing LCD than they would have paid in a competitive market.

91. Plaintiff has exercised due diligence by promptly investigating the facts giving rise to the claims asserted herein upon having reasonable suspicion of the existence of Defendants' conspiracy, and by seeking discovery as to the matters asserted herein, to the extent permitted by law.

COUNT I
(Violation of Tennessee's Trade Practices Act)

92. Plaintiff hereby adopts and incorporates by reference each of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

93. Beginning at least by January 1, 2002 and continuing until the present, the exact date being unknown to Plaintiff, Defendants and their Co-conspirators engaged in a contract, combination, and conspiracy in an unreasonable restraint of trade and commerce in violation of Tenn. Code Ann. §§ 47-25-101, et seq. and substantially affecting trade or commerce throughout the United States, including Tennessee.

94. Each of the Defendants named herein, directly or indirectly and through affiliates, dominated, controlled, manufactured, sold and/or distributed LCD throughout the United States, including Tennessee.

95. During the Class Period, Defendants have engaged in illegal, anticompetitive practices including those described herein and/or combinations of capital, skill, and acts with others with the intent, purpose and effect of creating and carrying out restrictions in trade and commerce; increasing the price and limiting and reducing the supply of LCD; and restraining trade and preventing competition in the relevant markets of LCD products, thereby enabling Defendants to perpetuate their monopoly.

96. The aforesaid violations of Tenn. Code Ann. §§ 47-25-101, et seq. consisted, without limitation, of a continuing unlawful trust and concert of action among the Defendants and their Co-Conspirators, the substantial terms of which were to fix, raise, maintain and stabilize the prices of, and to allocate markets for, LCD.

97. For the purpose of forming and effectuating the unlawful trust, Defendants and their Co-Conspirators have done those things which they combined and conspired to do, including but in no way limited to the acts, practices and course of conduct set forth above and the following:

- a. to fix, raise, maintain and stabilize the price of LCD;
- b. to allocate markets for LCD amongst themselves; and
- c. to allocate amongst themselves the production of LCD.

98. The combination and conspiracy alleged herein has had, inter alia, the following effects:

- a. price competition in the sale of LCD has been restrained, suppressed, and/or eliminated in Tennessee and throughout the United States;
- b. prices for LCD sold by Defendants and their Co-Conspirators have been fixed, raised, maintained and stabilized at artificially high, non-competitive levels in Tennessee and throughout the United States;
- c. those who indirectly purchased LCD have been deprived of the benefit of free and open competition in Tennessee and throughout the United States.

99. Plaintiff and the Class members paid supra-competitive and artificially inflated prices for LCD and products containing LCD.

100. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful and anticompetitive practices, including combinations and contracts to restrain trade and monopolize the relevant markets, Plaintiff and the Class members have been injured in their business and property in that they paid more for LCD than they otherwise would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct. As a result of Defendants' violation of Tenn. Code Ann. §§ 47-25-101, et seq., Plaintiff, on behalf of himself and the Class members, seeks full consideration paid by Plaintiff and the Class members pursuant to Tenn. Code Ann. §§ 47-25-106.

COUNT II
(Violation of Clayton Act for Injunctive Relief)

101. Plaintiff hereby incorporates by reference each of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

102. Beginning by at least January 1, 2002 and continuing until the present, Defendants entered into a continuing agreement, understanding, and conspiracy in restraint of trade to artificially raise, fix, maintain, and/or stabilize prices for LCD in Tennessee and the United States.

103. Defendants' conduct in restraint of trade had the intent, and effect, of maintaining artificially high, and anticompetitive prices of LCD and/or products containing LCD.

104. Defendants and Co-Conspirators did those things they colluded and conspired to do, including, but not limited to, the allegations set forth herein.

105. Defendants' illegal combination and conspiracy as alleged herein had the effect of (i) restraining, suppressing and/or eliminating competition; (ii) artificially fixing, raising, maintaining, and/or stabilizing prices at high, supra-competitive levels; and (iii) depriving consumers of free and fair competition on the merits.

106. It is in the best interest of the public to enjoin, pursuant to the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. § 26, Defendants and their officers, agents, employees, or representatives from engaging in the unlawful contract, combination, and conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce of LCD.

107. Plaintiff and the Class have and will continue to be injured by Defendants' conduct in violation of the antitrust laws of the United States and in violation of Tenn. Code Ann. §§ 47-25-101, et seq., in the absence of injunctive relief.
